VI. Read the passage and choose the best answer for each of the following questions.

London is a big city, but many of the people who live there regard it as a number of small towns put together. Each district has its own identity and atmosphere and some parts are even described by their inhabitants as “village”. Much of the center of the city consists of shops and businesses and the majority of people live in the suburbs. A great many of them travel to work in the city every day by train, bus, tube or car; this is called commuting. Commuters might spend as much as two hours every morning getting to work and another two hours getting home again. The cost of living in London is higher than in most other parts of Britain, and many people are paid extra money on top of their salaries because of this. Millions of visitors come to London every year from all over the world to see the famous sights, such as Buckingham Palace, where the Queen live, and many other historic buildings. London is famous for its theatres, red buses and black taxis.

Question IV. Read the passage and answer the questions

All of us have to work to earn a living ourselves and to help our family. However, we work not only for material life but also for many other things. We are working to prove our ability. We feel self-confident and proud because we are independent. Anyone who works is regarded as a useful member of society. We're working, that means we're contributing to our country. Working helps us train our minds because we always try our best to do the job.

The better we work, the more money we earn and that encourages us to work harder. Without working, a man's life will be empty, purposeless and meaningless and it's easy for a jobless person to do wrongs.

When I was just three years(31), I went to the post office with my mother where she was going to buy some stamps. While she was being served, I happened to notice a small stocking which was hanging from the counter. It was there to collect contributions for a charity for(32) blind. While her back was turned I took the stocking and emptied the contents into my coat pocket. Of course I(33) too young to know any better. When it was realized what I had done, everybody roared with laughter except, that is, for my mother who was a little embarrassed. She quickly emptied the money back into the stocking including, incidentally, a few pennies of my own. One(34)the clerks was something of an amateur cartoonist and he did a drawing of me robbing an old lady. This cartoon was projected in the post(35) for the next couple of years.

C. Read the passage carefully and choose the correct answers.

They called New York “the Big Apple”. Maybe it is not exactly like an apple, it’s certainly very big. There are too many people, that’s the problem. The streets are always full of car and trucks, you can never find a place to park.

If you have enough money, you can take a taxi. New York cabs are yellow. They look all the same. But the drivers are very different. Some were born and raised in New York, but many are newcomers to the United States. A few drive slowly, but most go very very fast. Cab driving is difficult job. It can be dangerous too. Thieves often try to steal the drivers’ money. Drivers sometimes get hurt.

If you don’t want to take a taxi, you can go by bus or you can take the subway. The subway is quick and it’s cheap, but parts of it are old and dirty. Lights don’t always work and there are often fire on the track. On some subway lines, there are new, clean, silver trains. But you can’t see the color of the old trains easily. There is too much dirt and too much graffiti, inside and out side.

II.ON YOUR ANSWER SHEET INDICATE THE LETTER A,B,C OR D AGAINST THE NUMBER OF EACH ITEM:

FIRST PASSAGE

Lily Chen always prepared an 'evening' snack for her husband to consume on his return at 1.15p.m. This was not strictly necessary since Chen enjoyed at the unusually late hour of 11.45 pm, what the boss boasted was the best employees' dinner in any restaurant. They sat waiters, boss, and boss's mother too, at a round table and ate soup, a huge fish, vegetables, shredded pork, and a tureen of steaming rice. Lily still went ahead and prepared broth, golden- yellow with floating oily rings and put it before her husband when he returned. She felt she would have been failing in her wifely duties otherwise. Dutifully, Chan drank the soup he raised to his mouth in the porcelain spoon while Lily watched him closely from the sofa. It was far too rich for him. Lily had the gas fire burning five minutes before her husband's footfall on the stone stairs and Chan would be perspiring heavily by the time he finished, abandoning the spoon and applying the bowl to his lips to drink the last awkward inches, the beads of moisture on his forehead as salty as the broth. He fancied they fell in and over- seasoned the last of the soup. Four years ago, at the beginning of their marriage, Chen had tried leaving the last spoonful but Lily's reproachful eyes were intolerable. She was merciless now, watching him with sidelong glances from the sofa, her knees pressed closely together while she paired the baby's socks from the plastic basket on the floor. 'Did you enjoy that, husband?' 'Was it nice?' she would enquire brightly. Chen would grunt in his solid way, not wishing to hurt her feelings but also careful not to let himself in for a bigger bowl in the future.

Although comfortably full, Chen would have liked a biscuit but Lily was unrelenting here as well. Sweet after salty was dangerous for the system, so she had been taught; it could upset the whole balance of the dualistic or female and male principles, yin and yang. Lily was full of incontrovertible pieces of lore like this which she had picked up from her father who had been a part-time bone-setter and Chinese boxer. For four years, therefore, Chen had been going to bed tortured with the last extremities of thirst but with his dualistic male and female principles in harmony. This was more than could be said for Lily, Chen often thought, who concealed a steely will behind her demure exterior.

16. What was Chen's job?

- A. He ran a restaurant B. He washed dishes C. He was a cook D. he worked as a waiter

17. How did Chen feel about his meal at home?

- A. It was too hot B. He looked forward to it
C. It was well-balanced D. He would rather not have it

18. Chen always finished his soup because Lily

- A. Felt content if he did. B. Would then allow him to drink
C. Did not like to throw food away D. Complained bitterly if he didn't

19. Chen's homelife was difficult because of his wife's

- A. Lack of concern B. Rigid ideas. C. Thoughtlessness D. Unco-operative behavior

20. Which of the following statements correctly describes the relationship between Lily and Chen?

- A. They were indifferent to each other B. They respected each other
C. They made each other suffer. D. They did not get on well.

III. USE THE WORDS TO THE RIGHT OF THE TWO TEXTS TO FORM ONE WORD THAT FITS IN THE SAME NUMBERED SPACE IN THE TEXT:

Traffic congestion is now a problem in practically major city in the world but nobody has yet found a workable (21)-----to the seemingly inevitable chaos. A metro system is sadly (22)-----in most cities for geographical reasons. Tram systems are (23)-----in old cities where narrow, winding streets make the installation of overhead cables a practical (24)-----many local government the business of coaxing people into buses and (25)-----them from using their cars easier said than done. And yet it is (26)----that the situation should be allowed to remain as it is. The arguments are in favor of direct action are now (27)-----if we are ever to prevent (28)-----levels of population and economic chaos.

It is astonishing how many people set off to climb Mount Olympus in completely (29)----- clothing. The weather conditions on the mountain are notoriously (30)-----but people are fooled into thinking that just because the bottom is sunny, the summit will be (31)-----warm and bright. Nothing could be further from the truth. Bearing in mind that (32)-----is forearmed', consult the local climbing club about the likely conditions before setting off. Such local knowledge can be absolutely (33)----- and you would, to put it mildly, be extremely (34)----- to ignore it. Whatever the likely weather, a good pair of boots is (35)-----as is some form of waterproof. And it is a steep climb so it goes without saying that a reasonable level of (36)-----is essential.

V. FILL EACH OF THE NUMBERED BLANKS IN THE PASSAGE WITH ONE SUITABLE WORD:

Many people have proposed that no employee (47)-----be asked to work more than a 35-hour week. This sounds fine in theories though in practice is (48)-----to give rise to all sorts of problems if applied too strictly. On the other hand, the proposal can be seen as a welcome attempt to stem employers' seemingly (49)-----demands for long hours. For some time, the underlying (50)-----has been for the working week to become longer and even the most unambitious employee has found it hard to fight the (51)-----towards longer working days and work dominated weekends. Anyone who can stop this encroachment of the work place into our leisure hours can boast a (52)-----achievement.

William Shakespeare

William Shakespeare was born in Stratford-Upon-Avon in Warwickshire, England on April 23, 1564. His mother, Mary Arden, had come from a fairly wealthy family. His father, John, was a glove maker and a leather merchant by trade. He also held the prestigious position of town bailiff in their community. In all, the Shakespeares had eight children, William being the third of these children and the first son. Three of William's brothers and sisters died during childhood.

Reportedly, Shakespeare did not have an extensive education. He did attend Stratford Grammar School, a school for the sons of prominent citizens, although it appears his family may not have paid for his education due to his father's status as a high-ranking town official. While it is not certain, it is believed that Shakespeare attended this school from age 7 to 14. The time he spent at this grammar school is assumed to be the only education he received, yet the literary quality of his works suggests a more advanced education. This matter has contributed to the debate concerning the authorship of his works.

On November 28, 1582, Shakespeare married Anne Hathaway, a farmer's daughter. ■ A) Anne was twenty-six years old when they married and was pregnant at the time. William was only eighteen. ■ B) Their marriage produced three children. ■ C) Shakespeare apparently abandoned his family and disappeared from 1585 to 1592. ■ D) No records of Shakespeare exist from this period of his life, and they are usually referred to as "the lost years." Some have speculated that he either became a schoolteacher, a butcher's apprentice, or was running from the law.

Shakespeare reappeared in London where he arrived with the goal of becoming an actor and playwright. Evidently, Shakespeare garnered envy for his talent early on. He even found a sponsor to help pay for his services. Shakespeare's work in the theaters came to a halt, however, when the theaters of London closed down due to the plague in January of 1593. This closing inspired Shakespeare and his company to move to the Globe Theater in the Bankside district, across the river from London's city limits.

Shakespeare's company, originally called "Lord Chamberlain's Men," changed their name to "The King's Men" after King James took over the throne in 1603. Because Shakespeare worked and performed for royalty, his company became the biggest and most famous acting company in the area. Consequently, Shakespeare became quite well-to-do as a director, writer, actor, and stockholder in The King's Men.

During his time, Shakespeare published and sold his plays in octavo editions. Also known as "penny copies," these were sold to the more literate members of his audience. It is noted that a playwright had never before enjoyed sufficient acclaim as to see his works published and sold as popular literature in the midst of his career. His 37 plays span the genres of tragedy, comedy, and history. While Shakespeare could not be considered wealthy by London standards, his success did allow him to purchase New House and retire in comfort in Stratford in 1611. He made a will on March 25, 1616, and died, as the legend has it, on his birthday, April 23, 1616. He was buried at Holy Trinity Church in Stratford on April 25th.

Shakespeare wrote his own epitaph to avoid the common tendency at the time of a person's grave being dug up after several years to accommodate another body.

"Good Friends, for Jesus' sake forbear,
To dig the bones enclosed here!
Blest be the man that spares these stones,
And curst be he that moves my bones."
To this day, no one has disturbed Shakespeare's grave.

In 1623, two working companions of Shakespeare from the Lord Chamberlain's Men, John Heminges and Henry Condell, printed the First Folio edition of his Collected Works, half of which were previously unpublished. The First Folio also contained Shakespeare's sonnets. Many argue that William Shakespeare's legacy is a body of work that will never again be paralleled in Western civilization. His words have endured for 400 years and still reach across the centuries as powerfully as ever.

1. Which of the following could best replace the word "garnered" as used in paragraph 4?
A. discouraged B. found C. attracted D. prevented
2. What does "this matter" in paragraph 2 refer to?
A. Shakespeare going to a school for prominent families
B. The surprisingly high quality of Shakespeare's works
C. The uncertainty of whether he attended the grammar school
D. His father's status as a high ranking town official
3. Why does the author mention that Shakespeare's father held the prestigious position of town bailiff in their community?
A. To illustrate that his father was also quite talented and accomplished
B. To show Shakespeare was not worried about the getting in trouble with the law

- C. To explain how his father could have married his mother, who was wealthy
 D. To explain why, although not wealthy, Shakespeare did enjoy some privilege
4. According to the passage, why did Shakespeare stop performing in London?
 A. The audience in London did not enjoy his poetic style.
 B. King James forced him to leave the city in 1595.
 C. He began selling his own plays to literate audience members.
 D. All the theaters were closed due to the plague.
5. According to the passage, why were the years 1585 - 1592 called "the lost years"?
 A. No records of Shakespeare's life exist from this time.
 B. Shakespeare was unable to write during this time due to an illness.
 C. Shakespeare's plays from this period were burned in the Great Fire.
 D. Shakespeare refused to speak with his wife during these years.
6. Which of the sentences below best expresses the essential information in the highlighted sentence in the passage?
Incorrect choices change the meaning in important ways or leave out essential information.
 A. The sale of Shakespeare's plays made him the most popular playwright of all time.
 B. London audiences were buying more plays than ever before.
 C. Shakespeare was the first playwright who was famous enough to sell his plays while still producing them.
 D. Shakespeare's plays played an important role in this rise of literacy in the west.
7. All of the following are true EXCEPT
 A. Shakespeare spent time as a glove maker from 1585 to 1592.
 B. Shakespeare had three children with his wife.
 C. Shakespeare's company came to be called "The King's Men."
 D. Shakespeare is said to have died on his birthday.
8. What can be inferred from paragraph 2 about Shakespeare's works?
 A. Shakespeare must have gone to university at some point to write them.
 B. Some scholars today doubt that Shakespeare actually wrote them.
 C. They are viewed as the best example of what one person can accomplish.
 D. They have never been considered as having been written by just one person.
9. Why did Shakespeare write his own epitaph?
 A. He didn't want his grave to be dug up later.
 B. He didn't want it to be written by an inferior writer.
 C. It was the custom at the time to write one's own epitaph.
 D. To dedicate it to two former actors in Lord Chamberlain's Men.
10. Directions: An introductory sentence for a brief summary of the passage is provided below. Complete the summary by selecting the THREE answer choices that express the most important ideas in the passage. Some sentences do not belong in the summary because they express ideas that are not presented in the passage or are minor ideas in the passage.
 First sentence: William Shakespeare lived an interesting and accomplished life and is today regarded as the greatest English writer the world has ever known.
 A. Shakespeare was the first playwright to enjoy such wide acclaim as to see his works published during his career.
 B. Shakespeare's acting company was originally called Lord Chamberlain's Men but later changed its name to The King's Men.
 C. Shakespeare's works are timeless and have endured for over 400 years.
 D. Shakespeare's father was a glove maker and the town bailiff of Stratford-Upon-Avon.
 E. Although he produced works of high quality, Shakespeare is not believed to have had an extensive education.
 F. Shakespeare's works have been translated into more languages than any other volume of literature, including the Christian Bible.

[1] As mentioned previously, one of the most important characteristics of a computer is its capability of storing information in its memory long enough to process it. Not all computers have the same type of memory. In this section, three types of memory will be discussed; core memory, semiconductor memory (or chip), and bubble memory.

[2] The memory of the first computers was made up of a kind of grid of fine vertical and horizontal wires. At each intersection where the wires crossed, there was a small ferrite ring called a core (hence the name "core memory") which was capable of being either magnetized or demagnetized. Every intersection had its unique address; consequently, when an electrical current was passed through the wires, the magnetized as well as the unmagnetized cores were identified by their respective addresses. Each core represented a binary digit of either 0 or 1, depending on its state. Early computers had a capacity of around 80,000 bits; whereas now, it is not surprising to hear about computers with a memory capacity of millions of bits. This has been made possible by the advent of transistors and by the advances in the manufacture of miniaturized circuitry. As the result, mainframes have been reduced in both size and cost. Throughout the 1950s, 1960s and up to the mid-1970s, core memory dominated the market.

[3] In the 1970s, there was a further development which revolutionized the computer field. This was the ability to etch thousands of integrated circuits onto a tiny piece (chip) of silicon, which is a non-metallic element with semiconductor characteristics. Chips have thousands of identical circuits, each one capable of storing one bit. Because of the very small size of the chip, and consequently of the circuits etched on it, electrical signals do not have to travel far; hence, they are transmitted faster. Moreover, the size of the components containing the circuitry can be considerably reduced, a step which has led to the introduction of both minis and micros. As a result, computers have become smaller, faster, and cheaper. There is one problem with semiconductor memory, however, when power is removed, information in the memory is lost unlike core memory, which is capable of retaining information during a power failure.

[4] Another development in the field of computer memories is bubble memory. The concept consists of creating a thin film of metallic alloys over the memory board. When this film is magnetized, it produces magnetic bubbles, the presence, or absence of which represents one bit of information. These bubbles are extremely tiny, about 0.1 micrometer in diameter. Therefore, a magnetic bubble memory can store information at a greater density than existing memories, which makes it suitable for micros. Bubble memories are not expensive, consume little power, are small in size, and are highly reliable. There is probably a lot more to learn about them, and research in this field continues.

1. The most important function of a computer is to hold information in its memory in order to process it.
2. Minicomputers, microcomputers, and mainframes all have the same kind of memory.
3. Semiconductor memory was developed before core memory and after bubble memory.
4. Core memory uses small metal rings which can be magnetized or unmagnetized.
5. The state of the core can be represented by either 0 or 1.
6. Early computer memories had less storage capacity than newer ones.
7. A transistor and a chip are the same kind of device.
8. The development of chips made it possible (or minicomputers and microcomputers) to be invented.
9. Bubble memory is smaller than a chip.
10. Bubble memory doesn't have very many advantages.

Sir,

Recent letters in your columns about insurance companies prompt me to cite this example. Some months ago a car (1)to my daughter was (2)from outside her house in Birmingham.

As a doctor in daily need of her car, she was surprised when her insurers said she would have to wait six weeks for (3)

To her annoyance they managed, by all kinds of procrastination, to drag this out to three months; and then only after a (4)of lengthy, rather unpleasant phone calls would they pay a penny.

My daughter was then (5)to find that there would be no refund, or no extension of the period of insurance, to cover the three months lost. A full premium (no (6)sum for (7)cover in Birmingham), had to be paid for a quarter of a year, when no cover was (8)at all.

Surely this is another example of the way insurance companies (9)money, perhaps legally but to my mind immorally, which gives them such a bad image. If any of your readers know of a way (10) this difficulty, I would welcome their advice.

Yours faithfully,

R.R.E. Potter

BODY LANGUAGE

Body language imparts meaning with the use of words. It is the type of non-verbal communication. There are certain recognized distinctions like types of body language: voluntary/involuntary and universal/cultural. The first distinction is often fuzzy in instance, a smile can be voluntary or involuntary. However, with the second distinction, smiles aren't universal. They are interpreting the same across all cultures. Nodding and head shaking, however, are cultural. In Turkey, the former is replaced by raising the eyebrows. It was thought that body language has its roots in animal communication. However, great apes raised in captivity are quite proficient for reading human body language.

Leonardo DiCaprio was born in Los Angeles on 11 November, 1974. He's a Scorpio. His full name is Leonardo Wilhelm DiCaprio. His mother is Germany and his father Italian-American. They called him Leonardo because when his mother was still pregnant, he started kicking while she was stood in front of a painting by Leonardo Da Vinci. His friends call him Leo. He has a scar from when he was stinging by a Portuguese man-of-war. His parents separated before he was born, so his mother moved to a poor neighbourhood of Hollywood there Leo grew up . At school he was very good at imitating people, especially Michael Jackson. This made him very popularly. His childhood hero was Poseidon, the Greek god of the sea.

After appearance in TV commercials and episodes of Roseanne, he played the cast of Roseanne, the TV sitcom starring Kirk Cameron. Leonard played the part of Luke, a homeless boy. Lately, he played the part of Jim Carroll in The Basketball Diaries. But he has really become famous since he acted in the film Titanic

VIII. Đọc kỹ đoạn văn sau và xác định các câu bên dưới là đúng (T) hay sai (F)

When I was younger, I hated being the oldest child and the only girl in my family. But now that I am older, I realize that being "Big Sister" actually has its advantages. First of all, I get special treatment from my parents and brothers. I get my own room, and brothers have to do all the heavy work around the house. Another benefit is that, being the oldest, I have learned to be responsible and dependable. For example, my parents often leave my brothers in my care when they go out. I also try my best in whatever I do in order to be a good example for my brothers. The experience I've had in taking care of my brothers has prepared me for my own family in the future. So, even though I didn't choose to be the oldest child and the only girl in my family, I have succeeded in making this situation work to my best advantages

T or F statements?

- 51/ ... When the writer was small, she disliked being the youngest child in her family
- 52/... . “ Big Sister” means the oldest sister.
- 53/... Being “Big Sister” helped the writer be responsible and dependable.
- 54/... The writer often looks after her brothers when her parents go out.
- 55/... When the writer grows up, she realises that being “ Big Sister” is enjoyable.

B. Read the passage carefully, then choose the correct answers.

We are all slowly destroying the earth. The seas and rivers are too dirty to swim in. There is so much smoke in the air that it is unhealthy to live in many of the world's cities. In one well-known city, for example, poisonous gases from cars pollute the air so much that traffic policemen have to wear oxygen masks.

We have cut down so many trees that there are now vast areas of waste-land all over the world. As a result, farmers in parts of Africa cannot grow enough to eat. In certain countries in Asia there is too little rice. Moreover, we do not take enough care of the countryside. Wild animals are quickly disappearing. For instant, tigers are rare in India now because we have killed too many for them to survive. However, it isn't enough simply to talk about the problem. We must act now before it is too late to do anything about it. Join us now. Save the Earth. This is too important to ignore.

QUESTION II. :Reading (40 points)A. Read the passage and choose the correct answer for the following questions:

On the tiny island of Flores, east of Bali and midway between Asia and Australia, the scientists have discovered the remain of a small, hobbit-like species of humans. These people grew no larger than the modern three-year-old child. They lived about 18,000 years ago and are completely different species of human.

[1] This remarkable discovery shows that the human species is more varied and flexible in its ability to adapt than previously thought. These hobbit-like people join a short list of other type of human.[2]

[3] The researchers believe that these hobbits evolved from a normal size, human population that reached Flores around 840,000 years ago. [4] One likely explanation is that, over thousands of years, the species became smaller because the environmental conditions favored a smaller body size. The dwarfing of mammals on islands occurs frequently. Islands limit food supply and predators and species compete for the same environmental space. Survival would depend on minimizing energy requirements.

1. Which is the main topic of this passage?
 - A. the discoveries of a hobbit-like species of human and its significance.
 - B. the reason for the dwarfing of mammals
 - C. detailed information about the features of a different species of human
 - D. a fictitious character in world history

 - A. s small, isolated area where there is a limited food supply
 - B. a mainland where there is a little competition for survival
 - C. an environment where there are many predators
 - D. an island that has a large and varied food supply
 5. According to the passage, all of the following can dwarf a species of animal or human except
 - A. limited land
 - B. little food
 - C. few predators
 - D. a deeply forested area with little sunshine
 6. Which of the following is true of the newly discovered species?
 - A. They are the only human species to live with modern man.
 - B. They were only as intelligent as a three-year-old child.
 - C. They moved from island to island.
 - D. They needed less food than modern human.
 7. We learn from the passage that dwarfing has occurred
 - A. on every continent
 - B. on other islands as well
 - C. only on the island discussed in the passage
 - D. none of the above
 8. According to the passage, why does a smaller size help species survive under certain condition?
 - A. It allows them to consume less food.

- B. It makes them more difficult for predators to see.
 C. It allows them to move more quickly.
 D. All of the above
9. In the passage, the term “the same environmental space” means
 A. the island

Larry Walters was a lorry driver, but he had always wanted to fly. After leaving school, he wanted to become an Air Force pilot, but unfortunately, he was turned down because of his poor eyesight. So he had to do with watching others fly the fighter jets that criss - crossed the skies over his backyard. As he sat there in his garden chair, he dreamed about the magic of flying.

Then one day, Larry came across an advertisement in the local paper and realized there was a way of making his dreams come true. He went to a specialist store and bought forty - five weather balloons and several tanks of helium. These were not brightly - coloured party balloons, but large spheres measuring more than one metre when fully inflated. His plan was to float lazily into the sky, and spend the afternoon running himself 10m above his girlfriend's garden before eventually coming back down to earth.

When he returned home, he attached the balloons to his garden chair, tied the chair to his car, and filled the balloons with helium. Then he packed a few sandwiches and drinks and took his air gun so that he could burst a few balloons when it was time to return to earth.

When his preparations were complete, Larry sat in his chair and cut the cord. But he made a mistake in his calculations and things did not turn out quite as he had planned. He did not float up as gently as he had expected: within seconds, he passed the 10m altitude that he had hoped to reach, rising quickly to 30m and then 300m. he climbed and went on climbing until he finally leveled at 3,000m.

At that height, he did not want to risk shooting any of the balloons because he was afraid it might unbalance his aircraft and send him, crashing to the ground. So he stayed up there among the clouds, sailing around for fourteen hours desperately trying to come up with a solution to the problem of how to get back to earth.

Eventually, many hours later, he drifted into the main approach corridor for Los Angeles International Airport. Fortunately, a Pan Am flight passed him and air traffic control was alerted. The pilot explained that he had just seen an armed man floating in a garden chair at 3,000m just outside the plane. Understandably, the air traffic controller found this difficult to believe, but a few minutes later a Delta Airlines pilot called with the same message. Radar confirmed the existence of an unidentified flying object above the airport and the authorities sent for a Navy helicopter to investigate.

As night began to fall, offshore breezes began to blow Larry out to sea, and when the helicopter arrives, the wind from the propeller kept pushing his home - made aircraft further away. Eventually, they hovered several hundred metres above him and managed to drop down a line, with which they were able to pull him gradually back to safety.

As soon as Larry hit the ground, he was taken away by the police charged with invading Los Angeles 'International Airport airspace. But as he was being led away in handcuffs, a television reported called out, "Why did you do it?" Larry stopped, looked at the man and explained. "I've been dreaming of flying for years. I just got tired of waiting".

I. READING : Read the text carefully and answer the questions below:

There is no doubt that the environment is in trouble. Factories burn fossil fuels which produce acid rain, and this kills trees. At the same time, greenhouse gases rise into the air and contribute to global warming, which threatens to melt the polar ice cap. Meanwhile farmers clear huge areas of rain forest in places such as the Amazon to produce feeding land for cattle or produce wood for building. Rivers and oceans are so heavily contaminated by industrial waste that it is no longer safe to go swimming. Cars pump out poisonous gases which we all have to breathe in. Poaching and overfishing are killing off millions of animals, including whale, elephants and other endangered species. In fact, all around us, all living things large and small which comprise our finely balanced ecosystem are being systematically destroyed by human greed and thoughtlessness.

There is a lot we can do, however, to prevent this. The easiest thing, of course, is to recycle waste material such as paper and glass so that we can use it again. If you are truly committed to protecting the environment , of course, you should only buy organic fruit and vegetables, safe in the knowledge that they have been naturally cultivated. Finally, we should buy a small car that uses unleaded petrol which is less harmful to the environment or, even better, make more use of public transport.

1. According to the text, what kills trees ?

My ideal job

One thing I know is that I wouldn't like to have an occupation that has anything to do with physics, (1) or maths; I am not the (2) type at all. In fact at school, I was a complete (3) in these subjects. Neither am I very good at dealing with people, nor am I (4), so jobs in business, administration and (5) don't really interest me either. Moreover I find it (6) to be surrounded by a lot of people; I would much rather have a job involving creative work or (7) skills of some sort. I'd like to have the chance to work outdoors (8) and perhaps do a bit of travelling too. I am not (9) concerned about becoming rich but I would like to have a (10) income - enough to live comfortably.

III. READING (35 points)

Part 1: Read the text about booking a flight and put the following sentences in the correct order. There is one sentence that you don't need to use. Write the letters A, B, C, ... next to the numbers. Number 1 has been done for you as an example.

When you want to book a flight to a certain place, visit your nearest travel agent. Tell the travel agent the date when you want to travel and the destination to which you want to go. The travel agent will then type the information into a small computer. After checking everything on the computer screen, he/she will send the information to a central computer. The central computer contains all information about bookings and destinations, and sends a reply, showing which are the most suitable flights. It also shows whether the flights are fully booked or not. The information which is now shown on the small computer screen is continually changing as other bookings are made in other parts of the world.

The travel agent now types in your booking, then the computer will ask for your name and address as well as for certain other information. It will also ask how you will pay for your ticket (by cheque or by credit card). Next the computer confirms the booking and makes a request for payment. When you have paid for your ticket, the travel agent types the information into the computer as well. Finally, some computers print out a ticket before you leave the travel agent's.

- A. Details about the flights and seats available are sent back.
- B. The computer then wants information about the method of payment.
- C. The tickets are issued either at that time or later.
- D. The computer asks for personal details.
- E. Make your request to the travel agent and give him/her all the details.
- F. Your request is then checked and sent to the main computer.
- G. Go to a travel agent.
- H. The computer asks for payment.
- I. The computer asks for the flight number.
- J. The travel agent fills your initial request into a small computer.
- K. The booking is typed into the small computer.
- L. The booking is confirmed.

Part 2: Read the passage and decide whether the following statements are true or false. Write the correct answer in each blank. (10 points)

Important information for passengers

Arrival

When the plane lands, you are requested to keep the seat belt fastened until the light goes off and remain in your seat until the plane stops moving. This is for your own comfort and safety.

Leaving the airport

If you are ending your journey at this airport, you should go up to the escalator to passport control and custom. If you are travelling further by rail or coach, you will find an information desk outside the custom hall, as well as a bank where you can change money.

Catching another flight

If you are planning to change planes, you should follow the signs to the waiting lounge, where you should check in and wait to board your connecting flight. There will be announcement when your flight is due to take off. Our ground staff will be happy to help you.

Leaving the plane

All passengers leaving the plane should make sure that they take everything with them. If you have checked in any luggage, you should remember to collect it from the baggage area inside the airport.

Continuing on this flight

We regret that passengers who are continuing their journey on this flight may not get off the plane. You may not smoke while the plane is on the ground.

Thank you for flying with us. We hope to be able to welcome you on board again soon.
